

Mr. Shimokaji is a shareholder in the law firm of Shimokaji & Associates, P.C., located in Irvine, California. The firm is engaged in intellectual property litigation and the procurement of patent rights domestically and abroad.

For more than 25 years, Mr. Shimokaji has supported clients in industries as diverse as aerospace, apparel, chemicals, computer software, household products, medical devices, photo imaging, and semiconductors. His expertise includes infringement litigation, patent and trademark portfolio development, and intellectual property monetization. He has lectured for local and national organizations in the US, as well as abroad, on various intellectual property topics.

He has been a member of the Steering Committee for the California Minority Counsel Program. He was a founding director of the Orange County Japanese-American Lawyers Association and has served as an instructor in the paralegal program at the University of California, Irvine. Mr. Shimokaji is a past president of the Orange Coast Optimist Club which is part of an international organization that supports programs for children. He served for three years on the Executive Committee for the California State Bar Intellectual Property Section, and another three year term on the California State Bar Federal Courts Committee. Mr. Shimokaji has been a member of the editorial board for The Journal of the Association of University Technology Managers. For the Pro Bono Civil Rights Panels of the US District Courts in California, Mr. Shimokaji is a volunteer attorney. Mr. Shimokaji has been formally trained at the Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution and is a mediator for the Los Angeles County Superior Courts.

He is the author of articles that include "Inducement and Contributory Infringement Theories to Regulate Pre-Patent Issuance Activity" 37 IDEA 571 (1997); "Type of Use Determines Whether Use of Web Content Will Be Infringing" L.A. Daily Journal, August 22, 2002; and "Cease and Desist Letters May Contain Some Hidden Perils" L.A. Daily Journal, February 27, 2003; "Contingency Defense in Patent Lawsuits" L.A. Daily Journal, August 1, 2006; "Putting Designs to the Test" L.A. Daily Journal, October 30, 2008; "Mind Over Matter" Los Angeles Lawyer, April 2009.

Following graduation from the University of California, Irvine with a bachelor's degree in chemistry, Mr. Shimokaji received his Juris Doctorate degree from Southwestern University School of Law. In law school, Mr. Shimokaji was an executive editor for the school's law review. He has served as a judicial extern for the Honorable Robert M. Takasugi, Judge, United States District Court. Mr. Shimokaji is admitted to the California Bar and the United States Patent and Trademark Office.